

Lifeline Fact Sheet

Since 1985, the federal Lifeline Program has provided a discount on phone service for qualifying low-income consumers to ensure that all people across the United States have the opportunities and security that phone service brings, including being able to connect to jobs, family, health care, and emergency services. This benefit is available to eligible low-income consumers in every state, territory, commonwealth, and on Tribal lands.

In today's digital environment, there are still over 60 million people without a connection to the internet. The FCC enacted changes to the Lifeline Program to include broadband internet access as a Lifeline service to keep pace with ever-evolving technology and help narrow the digital divide.

How it Works

- A discount of $9.25 per month is provided to eligible low-income subscribers, or up to $34.25 for those living on Tribal lands
- Subscribers may receive a discount on either:
 - Fixed voice (home phone)
 - Mobile voice (cell phone)
 - Fixed broadband – effective December 1, 2016
 - Mobile broadband – effective December 1, 2016
 - Broadband-voice bundle
- Consumer selects a participating Lifeline carrier in their state and applies for the Lifeline Program
- Carrier supports consumer through the application process and verifies their eligibility
- Once enrolled, the carrier begins delivering discounted services on a monthly basis
- Carrier files for reimbursement from USAC for discounted services provided

Program Rules

- Lifeline is available only to subscribers who can document their eligibility
- Only one Lifeline benefit is permitted per household
- Subscribers are required to recertify their eligibility every year

2016 Lifeline Modernization Order

Among the changes adopted in the 2016 Lifeline Modernization Order is the creation of the National Lifeline Eligibility Verifier. The National Verifier will act as a centralized, neutral third-party eligibility verification tool which will remove the burden of conducting these checks from Lifeline service providers while facilitating consumer choice and improving the enrollment experience for all subscribers.
