

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Information Sheet for the Public on the Housing Counseling Federal Advisory Committee and Application for Membership

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has supported a network of independent housing counseling agencies since 1968. The purpose of housing counseling is to assist homeowners and renters to improve their housing conditions and meet the responsibilities of tenancy or homeownership. Recent research shows a compelling relationship between housing counseling and positive outcomes for families such as more savings, less debt, improved credit scores, and fewer mortgage defaults and foreclosures.

HUD's Housing Counseling Program supports a wide variety of services to homebuyers, homeowners, renters and those at risk of homelessness. The primary objective of the program is to educate families and individuals in order to help them make smart decisions to improve their housing situation. Counselors help borrowers understand the terms of their lease or mortgage; create a family budget and savings plan; recognize fraud and scams; understand their rights under fair housing and fair lending laws; and obtain resources such as eviction prevention assistance or down payment assistance.

In 2010, recognizing the important role HUD's housing counseling program could play for those affected by the Great Recession, Congress established the Office of Housing Counseling at HUD and mandated the Secretary to appoint an advisory committee to provide advice to the Deputy Assistant Secretary regarding the carrying out the functions of the Office of Housing Counseling.

The mission of the Office of Housing Counseling (OHC) is to provide individuals and families with the knowledge they need to obtain, sustain, and improve their housing. Office of Housing Counseling (OHC) accomplishes this mission by supporting a strong network of approximately 1,850 HUD-approved housing counseling agencies and counselors. Last year, HUD housing counselors assisted over 1million families to overcome barriers and achieve their housing goals. The Office of Housing Counseling benefits from the experience and perspective of housing industry experts, housing counseling agencies and consumers. The Housing Counseling Federal Advisory Committee (HCFAC) provides a forum for those involved in housing counseling to offer advice directly to the Deputy Assistant Secretary for the Office of Housing Counseling on a regular basis. The Housing Counseling Federal Advisory Committee (HCFAC), however, will have no role in reviewing or awarding of housing counseling grants and procurement. To ensure input from stakeholders and other entities The Housing Counseling Federal Advisory Committee (HCFAC) will not be the sole source of advice to the Office of Housing Counseling.

The Housing Counseling Federal Advisory Committee (HCFAC) shall consist of no more than twelve (12) individuals. The membership will equally represent the mortgage and real estate industry, including consumers and housing counseling agencies approved by the Secretary. The members were first appointed to the Committee shall be designated by the Secretary to serve terms as follows: 4 appointed for a term of 1 year, 4 appointed for a term of 2 years and 4 be appointed for a term of three years. Thereafter, each member of the Committee shall be appointed for a term of 3 years. Members may be reappointed at the discretion of the Secretary.
